Academy unveils ambitious growth plans

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

BURNT Mill Academy Trust is bidding to convert the former Passmores School site into a new free school and sixth form centre.

On Tuesday BMAT director Helena Mills outlined the trust's intentions to add a third secondary school to the co-operative.

"I am very excited as it is an opportunity for us to provide a post-16 education," she said.

Explosion

"Burnt Mill Academy is already over-subscribed, and according to figures an explosion in the number of children has led there to be a need for a new school in 2018.

"Through opening a new school we are helping to give every child in Harlow a good education."

Under the plans, the new school is set to open as a sixth form centre in September 2017, with a multi-form Year 7 entry in September 2018.

The site, on Tending Road, Harlow, has been vacant since Passmores School relocated to its new Tracys Road premises in 2012, the site of former Brays Grove School, and became Passmores Academy.

The existing school building would be demolished and rebuilt, although it is not yet known how much construction work would cost.

As a free school it would be part of an academy trust funded by the Government but outside of local authority control.

The school would be named The Burnt Mill Academy of Excellence with the existing school on First Avenue, Harlow, re-named Burnt Mill - The Academy.

BMAT also runs Forest Hall secondary school in Stansted Mountfitchet as well as four primary schools in the Harlow area - Cooks Spinney, Little Parndon, Freshwaters and Roydon. At present primary school pupils attending these four schools have priority for selection to Burnt Mill Academy. However, it is likely The Burnt Mill Academy of Excellence would adopt a similar catchment area to the former Passmores school.

Ms Mills will be meeting with primary school headteachers to discuss the issue.

She said: "Parents have been coming up to me and asking me if we could start another school because there is such a demand for Burnt Mill.

"I will be meeting with other secondary head teachers and also with members of Harlow's other sixth forms at Harlow College and St Mark's West Essex Catholic School.

"I don't want this new school to be competition, nor do I want people to think Burnt Mill is taking over."

She added: "We will make sure this school offers a different package for students, and that the education young people want is available in Harlow.

Baccalaureate

"We would like to offer an international baccalaureate which is so far not offered in Harlow, and has led students to travel to Hertfordshire for further education.

"It needs to be understood that a free school was announced because there is a need, rather than this being Burnt Mill Academy wanting to take over the town."

"This is an exciting time for Harlow and I'm sure the new school will get a positive response."

Ms Mills needs to secure 750 signatures to take the plans before the county council in March next year. Of those 750, some 250 need to each be from parents of Year 3, Year 4 and Year 10 students.

Pets' Corner reopens after a £2.8m revamp

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S popular family attraction Pets' Corner, which celebrates its 50th anniversary next year, has reopened to the public following a £2.8m refurbishment.

The council-run facility was closed for nine months during construction work for the Town Park regeneration project which is part funded with £1.83m from the Heritage Lottery Fund and the Big Lottery Fund.

"The regeneration of Pets' Corner has been a major project involving the renovation of a facility not just to improve it for visitors and staff but also for the animals which live there," said Cllr Emma Toal, portfolio holder for youth and community.

Love

"Construction work has taken longer than expected. However, during this time residents have been incredibly patient as we know how much they love this facility and have anticipated its reopening."

The attraction has been completely renovated with a new events barn, new shelters for the animals, bird enclosure and aquarium, a new small animal quarantine room, updated surfacing and drainage and a refurbished duck pond. New cladding and repairs to buildings have also been completed throughout.

Facilities for staff have also been upgraded and access for all visitors has been improved with a new ramp and hand rails installed.

A new gift shop and reception is being fitted and will be ready to open in the coming weeks. Two new entrance gates will be completed shortly to improve access for all and some small improvements like putting new turf on the green area will take place this week.

Construction work on a new eco-friendly learning centre next to Pets' Corner continues and once completed will host educational visits to the Town Park and Pets' Corner.

Cllr Toal, added: "Next year is going to be a big year for Pets' Corner with the facility celebrating its 50th anniversary and a number of events to mark this occasion are now being planned. It is fitting that we will have a new modern Pets' Corner in time for this special milestone."

The first event to be held in the new events barn will be Pets' Corner's annual nativity play which will be held on Thursday, December 17.

Pets' Corner is open all year round (except Christmas Day and Boxing Day) seven days a week from 11am and entry is free.

Different view of the town

SIR I have recently found myself having to use a wheelchair after sustaining two broken legs in an accident and I am suddenly seeing this town in a whole different light.

We live in Bush Fair and the trip down to the shops is so difficult there is no way I'd be able to make this trip without my husband's help. The majority of the dropped kerbs are massively uneven and generally surrounded by deep holes in which the front wheels of my wheelchair get stuck.

When we went out for a meal, my husband called ahead to check their facilities. When we arrived the toilet was clearly used as storage, my wheelchair slid on the shiny floor and the boxes outside meant it was difficult to manoeuvre.

Our local pub has no disabled toilet and seemingly this is true of many of the pubs in Harlow. I have to praise Wetherspoons for having the best disabled facilities I have so far seen in this town.

Even the buses are disappointing, with one driver not being able to use the ramp needed to access his vehicle. Luckily a good samaritan on board helped my husband get me over the edge.

I love living here but sadly I've seen a different side to this town over the past four weeks. It makes me really sad to feel like I can't even go out in my own town for fear of discrimination, something I've never encountered before.

Street lighting better left off

SIR So Harlow Council has finally lost its marbles. In my opinion, our street lights are much better left off.

The lights were turned off to save both money and the environment but now, because of the wishes of a few people who have a childish fear of the dark and some cyclists who don't use lights on their bikes when they should (I drive from Harlow to Nazeing via Roydon Hamlet every day and more than half are

YOUR photos

■ With Hallowe'en just a couple of days away, reader Brian Bull took the opportunity to send in this photo of pumpkins grown at the Mill Lane allotments in Harlow. "They were grown as part of our giant pumpkin competition held for the past three years," he writes. "The winner was first timer Elaine Ochiltree, of Elmbridge, with a 91lb pumpkin."

■ If you have a photo you would like featured, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description and details of where and when it was taken, to star@hertssexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

invisible, thus really not helping themselves) the lights are now back on.

This proves that the switch-off was nothing but a financial decision as it was only reversed due to raising council tax funding. It has nothing to do with environmental issues.

So now it will cost more, increase emissions, cause more light pollution and upset wildlife in to the bargain.

No place for a kind gesture

SIR I wish to express my disgust at the parking fee arrangements at Princess Alexandra Hospital. The car parking partnership dictates that visitors to the hospital key in their vehicle registration number to the machine, thus preventing the humane gesture of passing on a valid ticket to a newcomer.

As if the parking on site is not expensive enough, they are not happy with just collecting the designated charge but feel justified to squeeze additional revenues. Visitors have already paid in full for their parking, so if the time paid for has not elapsed then why shouldn't we have the right to make a decent gesture and offer it to someone else who may be in need?

Visitors to the hospital (as we all have been) are often in difficult situations and a kind gesture sometimes just makes you feel that little bit better.

To me this practice just stinks of pure corporate greed and this really annoyed me as I was rushing to see my brother in the A&E department.

Shame on the CPP for trying to erode our acts of kindness. Next time I may be tempted to plug in a seven digit cryptic word starting with P and ending with F.

At the same time, a massive thank you to the dedicated staff at PAH. Every member of staff I have ever met there is truly outstanding.

Why are police short of cash?

SIR Could somebody please tell me why Essex Police is reducing the number of Police Community Support Officers by 190 out of 250 posts when the Police and Crime Commissioner for Hertfordshire is committed to keeping its strength of 228 PCSOs and is recruiting another three?

The Metropolitan Police Commissioner, Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe, has also publicly stated there will be no reductions of any form in the Metropolitan Police area.

Perhaps someone could tell me why Essex is so strapped for cash when other police forces do not seem to be. How is our money being spent?

Brian Weavers
Greyygoose Park, Harlow

Grateful for the care I received

SIR I have recently been discharged from Princess Alexandra Hospital after spending 19 nights there.

I was taken ill whilst travelling from the north of England.

After the initial experience in A&E I was transferred to Saunders Ward where I was attended to day and night.

The staff in this ward, and I'm sure the rest of the hospital, are dedicated to what they all do and I can't thank them all enough for the treatment I received.

People complain about the NHS but after this experience I can see every department is shortstaffed and struggling to prioritise what needs to be done and when.

Mike Nugent

Thanks ...

SIR May I thank all the kind people who helped looked after my 81-year-old husband when he fell outside the GP surgery in Prentice Place.

They called the ambulance and kept him very warm for two hours until it arrived.

To the gentleman who left us with his child's blanket, if there is any way I can return it please let me know.

Thanks to you all, once again.

...and no thanks

SIR As a community midwife working in and around Harlow, would just like to say thanks to the idiots who stole both number plates from my car last weekend.

Thanks to you it was difficult for me to work. Maybe your girlfriend or wife and potential baby needed a midwife that couldn't be there for her. Well done.

Common sense has prevailed

SIR Earlier this year the Royal College of Nursing warned of a crisis looming in health services set to affect the vital services provided to patients in this area. Nurses recruited from outside the European Economic Area since 2011 faced being removed from the country if they were not earning at least £35,000 after six years as part of changes to immigration laws.

As well as wasting thousands in recruitment costs, the changes posed real workforce challenges for many healthcare providers in Essex already struggling to fill vacancies.

Common sense has now prevailed and the Government has announced that nursing will be placed on the list of professions exempt from this rule – a victory for nurses and more importantly patients. But this change of stance is only temporary and while it will help in the short-term, we need to look further ahead.

The RCN wants this common sense approach extended to the training and retaining of more nurses in the longer term. The Government must significantly increase student nurse training places so our patients are no longer at the mercy of global workforce trends.

Sam Neville, chair Essex branch
Royal College of Nursing

Bonfire Night collection

SIR I would like to explain to your readers the purpose of the collection on Bonfire Night in Harlow.

One of the duties of the chair of the council is to raise money for charity. Each year the chair chooses a charity to support and this year Cllr Tony Hall has chosen the Citizens Advice Bureau.

The CAB, which has offices facing on to Market Square, it gives advice to anyone in need on a wide range of subjects including debt management and legal problems. It also visits the college to offer advice to students on financial management.

The chair raises money in a variety of ways including a collection at the civic service and civic dinner as well as the collection on Bonfire Night. All the collectors are volunteers, often councillors.

I hope everyone will give generously to this very worthy cause.

Cllr Edna Stevens
Fullers Mead, Harlow

Man who wielded pellet gun during street argument is sent to prison

A MAN who was seen wielding a pellet gun during an argument over a drugs debt has been jailed for 16 months.

Robert Somerville, 22, of Charters Cross, Harlow, pleaded guilty to the charge and also admitted another offence of wielding a Samurai sword.

Chelmsford Crown Court was told the incident involving the gun happened last November, six months after the defendant was spotted in Berecroft with the sword and later seen by police using it to bang on a door.

Somerville admitted charges of possession of an imitation firearm with intent to cause fear of violence on November 11, 2014 and possession of a Samurai sword on May 15, 2014. He was sentenced to 12 months for the gun offence and four months for the sword offence.

Deborah Champion, prosecuting, said that during an argument involving a group of men in Staple Tye, Somerville pulled the pellet gun from the waistband of his trousers. He then threatened one of the men before returning the weapon to his waistband.

Miss Champion said that when questioned by police about the incident, Somerville claimed he had been threatened.

In relation to the offence involving the sword several months earlier, Miss Champion told the court Somerville had eventually thrown it on the floor and attempted to run off. He told police he wanted it as an ornament to hang with some axes.

Matthew Logan, representing Somerville, said in mitigation the pellet gun had been used by the defendant and some of his friends for shooting tin cans.

He claimed that Somerville only produced it during the argument over a drug debt after the other man had threatened him with a knife.

Recorder Giles Eyre was told that Somerville had a string of previous convictions including robbery and had received a 22-month jail sentence three years ago.

Passing sentence, Mr Eyre told Somerville: "It must have been terrifying for the other man when you pulled the gun from your waistband. There are risks of over-reaction if people see you in the street with a gun."

Somerville was found not guilty of entering a flat at Church End with intent to steal, having claimed he went there by mistake after drinking.

Council starts the countdown to free Town Park fireworks show

THOUSANDS of people are expected to head for the Town Park next weekend when Harlow's annual free fireworks spectacular which will once again be staged at the Showground.

The event starts at 5.30pm on Sunday, November 1. Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall will light the bonfire at 6.45pm and this will be followed half-an-hour later by the start of the fireworks display which is expected to last about 20 minutes.

Because of the number of people expected to attend the show, Fifth Avenue will be closed to traffic from 5.15pm to 8.30pm for safety reasons.

A limited amount of parking will be allowed at the Showground car park for blue badge holders arriving before 6.15pm. Vehicles will not be able to leave until Fifth Avenue is re-opened.

Throughout the event volunteers will mingle with the crowds to collect money for local charities, while representatives volunteers from the Leah Manning Centre will be selling toffee apples to raise funds to provide activities for older people. Their stand will be next to Spurrers House near Pets Corner.

The whole event is being organised by the council with support from the Great Parndon Community Association.

MEP visits Islamic centre to meet Muslim leaders

Howitt speaks of need to crack down on 'sources of radicalisation'

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LEADERS of the town's Muslim community met Euro MP and former Harlow Council leader Richard Howitt to discuss the threat to young people from radicalisation.

Mr Howitt visited the Harlow Islamic Centre, in Paringdon Road, on Friday during which he said a Europe-wide effort was needed to tackle the problem of extremism.

The Labour MEP also called on Harlow residents to be more welcoming towards people of the Islamic faith.

Speaking after the visit, Mr Howitt said: "It was a pleasure to speak to them. Every time I visit a mosque I find it an uplifting, warm and friendly community who are saddened and sickened by violence.

"Now is the time to crack down on the sources of radicalisation in order to prevent the harrowing stories we have heard about families travelling to Syria and beyond to fight."

Mr Howitt said he had supported European Union proposals to force internet service providers to accept greater responsibility for radical websites and to face criminal charges if they fail to comply.

He added: "I asked [members of the Harlow Islamic Centre] if any of them knew anyone who had been radicalised. They all said no which was encouraging and is good news for Harlow.

"However, clearly this is a problem that exists and needs to be dealt with. Only working with our European allies can a common solution be found to these brainwashing videos and web of hate."

Two years ago the centre was the target of an arson attack but Mr Howitt praised the Muslim community for "putting it behind them" and said he did not consider the town to have a problem with Islamophobia.

"The attack is not fresh in the memory and people do not feel threatened," he said. "They feel welcomed by the people of Harlow."

"The more Muslims are welcomed the more they feel part of the community, and less likely to have grievances. It is only through rejection that people turn to radicalisation and extremism."

"I think it is very important to speak up against prejudice and promote the positive impact that religion can have on lives."

Abdul Khaliq, a member of the centre's organising committee, said:

"Mr Howitt spoke about extremism and how to prevent young people from being radicalised and joining ISIS or ISIL."

"We discussed why this is happening and what everyone can do to stop it."

"He was very pleased he was able to speak to so many people and address more than 200 people in the congregation."

"I agree that this is an important issue to be discussed rather than blaming people."

"People were pleased with Richard's talk and stayed for longer than usual after the prayers."

PARADE: Thousands line the route to The day Harlow

Words: Gemma Gardner & William Mata

CHEERING crowds packed Harlow town centre to welcome home the 1st Battalion The Royal Anglian Regiment from operations in Afghanistan and Mali.

More than 200 soldiers, accompanied by the Band of the Queen's Division, marched through Broad Walk as they exercised their freedom of Harlow for the first time, before parading in the Water Gardens.

Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall said: "This is the first opportunity you have had to exercise your right to parade through Harlow. Today, you have made history and Harlow's people have witnessed a truly great occasion. Thank you."

"Today is part of celebrating your homecoming saying thank you, and showing you how proud we are of the work you have done but let's not forget those who are no longer with us."

"We all recognise the sacrifice our armed services and their families make so we also remember and pay tribute to all those soldiers from the regiment who have lost their lives."

"Harlow's very own Private Robert Foster was tragically killed in Afghanistan in August 2007 while serving with the 1st battalion."

"Fozzy, as he was known, is someone this town will never forget. His family are with us today and our thoughts remain with them and remain with all the families, friends and colleagues who have lost people serving and protecting our country."

The Vikings, who recruit locally, went to Afghanistan with more than 200 officers and soldiers on Operation Toral in February this year.

The operation was the UK's military contribution to a Nato training and advisory initiative. The formed the Kabul Protection Unit, protecting hundreds of advisors, working alongside US, Australian and Mongolian forces.

The Royal Anglians also had responsibility for the security of advisors and mentors at the Afghan National Army Officer Academy.

The Vikings have also had a team in Mali as part of an EU training mission to build capacity and capability in the Malian armed forces in a bid to build long term stability in the country.

The 27-strong team trained around 300 Malian soldiers in combat and counter-insurgency operations.

Over the last decade the battalion has completed five tours of duty in Afghanistan earning 10 Military Crosses, two DSOs, three MBEs and a Queen's Gallantry Medal.

Thousands of residents lined the parade route.

Former serviceman Peter Wood, 84, said: "I was in many parades myself, but never in Harlow. I have come along today to film the parade. It is an honour to be here and I am looking forward to the parade."

Nora Champelovlar, from Staple Tye, said: "I'm part of the British Legion group and we

'Fantastic day. Proud to have been there, proud of the Vikings and proud of my son who didn't make it home from Afghanistan but would, as a Harlow boy had a massive smile on his face.'

John Foster, father of Private Robert Foster, pictured left, who was killed while serving with the 1st Battalion The Royal Anglian Regiment in Afghanistan in August 2007 have been looking forward to today for a while. I am very proud of all the soldiers marching, they have done a great service and they fully deserve all of this."

Jennifer McLean, who was joined by her daughter Katie

McLean had travelled from Southend for the parade.

She said: "We're here to see my partner Dale Oliver march through and we're both very proud of him."

"It is the first march we have seen him on."

It was such an incredibly proud

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE mother of one of the soldiers who took part in the parade through Harlow town centre has spoken of her pride at seeing the welcome the troops of the 1st Battalion The Royal Anglian Regiment received.

Sue Coleman, who lives in Chelmsford, travelled to Harlow with other members of her family to watch her son, Private Scott Coleman, and his comrades as they marched in front of cheering crowds.

"It was such an incredibly proud moment and a very proud day," she told the Star. "For my son it was really nice to see everyone turn out to support them."

Private Coleman, the youngest of three siblings, joined the Army at the age of 17 after completing a public services course at college.

Now, two years later, he has completed a tour of duty in Afghanistan.

"It's really hard," said Ms Coleman, talking about about the period when her son is away on duty. "It's hard to explain it."

"I'm part of a Facebook group with other Army mums which helps. It's very stressful and when you see things televised it makes your heart sink."

"But I do think we all feel something since he deployed, very patriotic."

She added: "The feedback from the boys has been that it was the best of their latest parades."

The family of Harlow-born soldier Lewis Hedger were also in the crowds and described the pride of seeing their son on parade.

Lewis told the Star "It was the biggest turnout we had all week and it was amazing to be apart of it."

"It was a truly amazing experience, especially being from the town. I didn't realise there was such a positive view towards us."

MANY HAPPY RETURNS: John Pankhurst celebrates his 100th birthday with son Simon, grandson Chris, Lucy Eagland, daughter-in-law Jenny and grandson Rob

John celebrates his 100th with a party and a glass of bucks fizz

CENTENARIAN John Pankhurst celebrated his 100th birthday on Saturday and said a relaxed lifestyle has helped him reach the landmark.

Mr Pankhurst was joined by members of his family on the day which started with a glass of bucks fizz.

Later they enjoyed a party organised by staff at the Tye Green Lodge Care Home in Harlow where he has lived for two years.

His son Simon, 57, said: "He had a great day and the home was very good to organise it all. We had bucks fizz at breakfast time and then a party in the afternoon."

"He is pleased that he is still happy and enjoying life at the age of 100. He was delighted to receive a card from the Queen."

Mr Pankhurst grew up in Tottenham, moving to Harlow during the early years of the New Town in the 1950s as part of the first generation to arrive from the capital. Before moving to Tye Green, he lived in Kingsland and worked as a toolmaker.

He and his wife, Olive, had two children – Simon and daughter Janet. Sadly, both Olive and Janet have passed away. Mr Pankhurst also has four grandchildren.

His son added: "He has good genes as his father lived until he was 86. He didn't drink a lot and never smoked."

"He would say the secret to his long life was to relax and enjoy yourself. Maybe it's a bit boring but he has always looked after himself."

Royal surprise for a diamond couple

Special delivery makes anniversary a day to remember

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A COUPLE celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary were "completely surprised" when a card of congratulations from the Queen popped through their letterbox.

David Marsh, 88, and his wife Dorothy, 81, were married on October 22, 1955. The couple were both keen cyclists and met through cycling clubs.

They tied the knot in Leyton and soon after moved to Harlow at a time when much of the new town was still under construction.

"There were quite a lot of differences between the town then and now," said Mr Marsh, of Holly Field. "I think most of the changes have been for the better."

"When we first moved in all of the shops were converted garages and our garden was just a mudpit. This was originally a council house but we were able to buy it."

Mr Marsh worked at as an DEVOTED: David and Dorothy Marsh are celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary engineer in Hoddesdon and Mrs Marsh was a hairdresser at a salon in Harlow. The couple have two children – son, David, 55, and daughter Sandra, 52 – and four grandchildren – Alex, Ross, Anthony and Matthew.

They were joined by their family when they celebrated their anniversary with lunch at the Toby Carvery. Their celebrations were topped off by the delivery of the card from Buckingham Palace.

Envelope

"I was completely surprised when I had to sign for this black envelope," said Mr Marsh. "I didn't know they gave out the cards for the 60th anniversary, I thought it was only 70 years."

Mrs Marsh said: "Being married has been fantastic. Dave looks after me so well, I would not have to do anything at all if it was up to him."

"I think the secret to a successful marriage is to look after each other. I have had to do a lot of looking after Dave with all of his cycling injuries."

She added: "I am very grateful to Harlow as we wouldn't have had a home had it not been for the town. I would never want to move."

In brief

Athlete inspires athletics club

HARLOW: A promising runner helped train tomorrow's stars by leading a primary school's athletics club.

Middle distance prodigy Canaan Soloman, one of the UK's top under-18 runners, paid a visit to Kingsmoor Academy in Ployters Road.

Canaan, 17, who studied at Mark Hall Academy, led the pupils through some warm-up activities and running drills. He then spoke about his life as an aspiring athlete and about his journey towards the Tokyo 2020 Olympics.

Canaan, who left school last summer to focus on running full-time, then took part in a question and answer session.

Movie magic

HARLOW: The magic of the movies filled the imaginations of pupils at a primary school during a week dedicated to the silver screen.

All the children at Fawbert and Barnard's Primary in London Road, joined in with the movie magic but they did not just sit around watching DVDs.

Year 6 pupils were in charge of writing and producing a short fantasy film for the younger pupils to watch while creative Year 5s were given the task of thinking up ideas for a science fiction film.

In a week where Back to the Future was in the news, it was fitting that Year 3 studied films that predict the future while Year 4 created stories around the Disney musical The Lion King.

ON SONG: Competition winner Emma Knudsen

Emma takes the crown at school talent show

AUDIENCES were dazzled as students battled it out on stage for a cash prize at a secondary school's talent show.

More than 40 acts auditioned for the show finale held at St Mark's West Essex Catholic School, in Tripton Road, Harlow.

Fifteen acts were then chosen to contest the final of St Mark's Got Talent which was judged by teachers and compered by sixth formers Charlie Jennings and Kenan Krkic.

Year 8 singer Emma Knudsen took the honours with her rendition of I Dreamed A Dream from the musical Les Misérables, with Sharon Chapuka finishing runner-up. Emma won a cash prize which was provided by the Friends of St Mark's.

English teacher Shannon Hughes, who organised the show, said: "The students really did me proud. They were well rehearsed, real professionals. All 15 finalists were incredible."

PROJECT: Pupils asked to complete Students' year-long passport challenge

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE world is their oyster for secondary school students who are exploring their identities in a new challenge.

Every pupil at Burnt Mill Academy, in First Avenue, Harlow has been issued with an enrichment passport and encouraged to complete 20 tasks. The challenges include taking a selfie with a London landmark, trying an international meal for dinner and helping out in the community.

The school is hoping students can develop their confidence and creativity by filling the pages of their passports.

Hannah Jones, humanities teacher at Burnt Mill, said: "Part of the Ofsted framework is to develop the spiritual, moral, social and cultural sides of our young people but it is also the Burnt Mill way to encourage students to have new experiences and to continue to push themselves.

"Lots of these things are happening in school anyway but we need activities like these to develop them in other ways.

Awareness

"We are looking to encourage creativity, reflection, understanding, awareness of different cultures and taking time out to think about things. Young people also need the ability to be able to work with other people and some of these tasks focus on that.

"We want students to get out and see different cultures and different people. We want to ensure our students are ready for modern Britain in a multi-cultural

20 self-enriching tasks

CREATIVE: Team leader Stef Perry lends a helping hand at the art afternoon

Family focus at nursery art session

YOUNGSTERS got the chance to show off their creative abilities when a Harlow nursery hosted a family art afternoon.

Kiddi Caru, in Kiln Lane, Church Langley, invited parents and carers to join the children and staff in the craft activities on Thursday.

The youngsters were encouraged to take part in different kinds of art to create interesting works to take home.

It was the latest in a string of events held by the nursery that encourages parents to get involved.

Nursery manager Vania Farinha said she likes to invite parents in so they can see for themselves what is going on.

"Our door is always open to parents but we like to have special days when parents can come in and get a real feel for Kiddi Caru," she said. "They are always welcome to come and join the fun."

linked to the extensive range of enrichment clubs available at the secondary phase of schools, with stamps being issued in the passport for every six clubs students attend.

They have one year to complete the list of tasks and must give evidence in their passport for each. Prizes for the most creatively completed passports will be awarded.

Truck smashes rail barriers at village crossing

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

TRANSPORT police have launched an investigation after a van crashed through the level crossing barriers at Roydon on Monday.

The white truck was seen to smash through the closed barriers and was then driven away without stopping. The incident happened around 12.45pm.

Train services on the Cambridge to London Liverpool Street line were delayed for a short time in both directions.

Workers from Network Rail quickly repaired the damage and train operator Abellio Greater Anglia confirmed services were running to the normal timetable soon after.

British Transport Police immediately launched an investigation into the crash and are appealing for help to trace the driver of the truck.

"We were contacted with a report that a white open back van had driven straight through the barriers and drove away," said a spokesman. "We are currently working with Essex Police to investigate the incident." ■ Anyone who witnessed the crash is asked to contact British Transport Police on 0800 405040, citing the log reference 226.

Work to improve traffic flow at bottleneck Clocktower roundabout completed on time

ROADWORKS at the busy Clocktower roundabout on the A14 at Harlow have been completed on time.

The £4.2m scheme to increase junction capacity and improve accessibility to the town centre will support development plans for thousands of new homes and jobs in the immediate area.

Cllr Rodney Bass, Essex County Council's cabinet member for highways and transportation, said: "The Clocktower roundabout scheme marks the first in a series of measures designed to upgrade the A14 in Harlow and across the county."

"Despite a number of technical challenges, particularly the co-ordination of utilities supply and the complete rebuild and diversion of localised gas mains and gas governor plant, the scheme has met all our expectations of timescale, cost and quality."

Work on the project, which began in August of last year, has also included improvements surface drainage at the site.

The upgraded roundabout now has dedicated left turn slips into and out of Second Avenue, reducing congestion and improving traffic flow. The previous arrangement was a four-arm roundabout which resulted in heavy bottlenecks.

The cost of the scheme was met from funding secured by County Hall from the Government's Local Pinch Point Fund.

The pumpkin paddlers

WITH Hallowe'en just a couple of days away, you may have already been busy making jack-o-lanterns by scooping out the insides of pumpkins and turning them into scary heads.

But over in America a group of people have found a very different use for these large orange-coloured fruits by turning them into boats.

They take part in races around a lake in boats which they have made from enormous pumpkins as part of the 12th annual West Coast Giant Pumpkin Regatta.

Thousands of spectators watched as a total of 21 pumpkin boats competed in the four races, with the participants kneeling inside their makeshift vessels.

One of those who took part, 50-year-old Larry Nelson, said it wasn't easy trying to paddle in a pumpkin. "It's brutal, it's just exhausting," he told reporters.

The champion paddler was Mike Walton, who said: "The more stupid, the more fun it is."

FUNDRAISERS for the Essex Air Ambulance are hoping to scale new heights with their next challenge – a trek through the Slovenian Alps.

Volunteers are being sought for the six-day expedition through the spectacular scenery of snow-capped mountains, glacial lakes and crystal clear rivers in the Triglav National Park next September.

For the past seven years the air ambulance trust has organised a fundraising trek overseas. Destinations have included the Great Wall of China, the Inca Trail in Peru, the Grand Canyon, Nepal and, this year, Cambodia.

To date they have raised more than £360,000 for the service, money which goes toward the £480,000 needed every month to keep the air ambulance flying.

Anyone who signs up to take part before December 14 will qualify for an 'early bird' discounted registration fee of £19. A minimum fundraising target is required and places will be allocated on a first come first served basis.

For more information about the trek or to register, visit EssexAirAmbulance.uk.com or email Trek@EHAAT.uk.com.

Finding the face for dog walk fundraiser

Could your pooch follow in pawsteps of Peanut and Daisy?

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TIME is running out for dog owners who would like to see their pets become the face of St Clare Hospice's popular Winter Walkies event.

The Hastingwood-based charity is searching for a cute canine to feature on posters, leaflets and other promotional material in the run-up to its annual 5km countryside walk taking place on Sunday, February 28.

Last year's winners were Peanut and Daisy who were given the honour of leading the walk.

St Clare events fundraiser Heather Cameron said: "Last year was the first time we ran our Furry Face of Winter Walkies competition and we were overwhelmed by the response.

"It really captured the imagination of our animal-loving supporters who cast hundreds of votes to make Peanut and Daisy the joint winners.

"We know how much people love their pets so this year we hope the competition will be just as successful and we can't wait to see which top dog will be voted the new Furry Faces of Winter Walkies."

All you need to do to enter the competition is:

■ Register at <http://stclarehospice.org.uk>

TOP DOGS: Above, Peanut and Daisy who won the public vote to become the face of the last Winter Walkies event

/get-involved/community-fundraising/furry-face-of-winter-walkies/

■ Email a picture and a brief description of your dog, including name, breed and age as well as your booking reference, to fund@stclarehospice.org.uk by noon tomorrow (Friday, October 30) to go forward to the public vote.

■ Encourage friends and family to vote for your pet when the gallery of all the competition entrants is published on the St Clare Facebook page at 10am on Monday.

The dog which receives the most 'likes' when voting closes at noon next Friday (November 6) will be named the winner.

The winning dog and owner must be available to take part in a special Winter Walkies photo shoot at the hospice on Wednesday, November 11 at 6.30pm.

For more information about the competition, contact Heather on (01279) 773750 or email heather.cameron@stclarehospice.org.uk.

Bag challenge will help stock hospice shops

IN THE BAG: Hospice fundraisers Jade Clarke and Nikki Hill with one of the donation stations

SCHOOLS and businesses in Harlow are being asked to help boost donations to St Clare Hospice's eight shops by taking up the charity's 25-Bag Challenge.

The hospice shops need a constant supply of good quality items ranging from books and bric-a-brac to clothing and furniture which are sold to raise money for the services it provides.

To mark its 25th anniversary, the hospice is challenging its supporters to donate 25 bags of items to the cause.

"To make it even easier, we can supply schools and workplaces with a special donation station, complete with plastic sacks to bag up items and Gift Aid forms to help make donations to even further," said head of retail Fiona Eaton.

To take part in the 25-Bag Challenge and request a donation station, call St Clare's retail team on (01279) 454596 or email fiona.eaton@stclarehospice.org.uk.

Town boxing academy has the ring of success

Madra Mor helps to train people of any ability and age

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

A BOXING gym that offers classes to people of all ages and abilities is celebrating its recent successes.

Madra Mor Boxing Academy is run by boxer Gavin Conway, 37, himself a British champion, along with personal trainer John Final.

Set up in 2012, the academy offers a variety of classes including beginners, ladies only, amateur, white collar and children's boxing, self-defence and one-to-one personal training.

"Anyone can come along," Gavin explained. "The classes are of mixture of abilities and there's a real group feeling, so the less experienced will be helped by those who have been here longer. Everyone motivates each other and no-one is left out."

The academy, which is based at Body Active Gym in Cambridge Road, Harlow, also offers strength and conditioning clinics, specialised fitness and rehabilitation.

Gavin also works with a range of young people and adults with behavioural and discipline clinics as well as people with specialist medical needs.

One mum explained: "My son has had a terrible time at school being bullied, but since training with Gavin, now has the confidence to stand up for himself."

While another said: "Gav has been working with my daughter for about three months now. She has problems with gross and fine motor skills."

"She recently attended two school parties and had no trouble keeping up with the other children. Her confidence and strength has improved immeasurably."

"I've been boxing for over a year at different clubs, but since training at Madra Mor, I've learnt so much more and am now ready for my first fight," said a female client.

Gavin also has two fights coming up with a white collar boxing event on November 27 at York Hall and he will be competing for the European IBA title on December 5 in Romford.

Clinics and PT sessions range in price from £20-£40 with the price of a class set at £5.

NEW LOOK: The Co-operative Food store

Supermarket takes on a community pioneer role

A SUPERMARKET has been "redefined" following an extensive refurbishment project costing £220,000 and staff now hope to forge better relationships with the community.

The Co-operative Food in Maunds Hatch, Harlow, has reopened with a new in-store bakery range. As well as a higher focus on fresh and healthier foods, the shop will also take on the role as 'community pioneer'.

The scheme will see a member of staff work to foster involvement in community activities, which will include helping organise local fundraising initiatives.

Muhib Kahn, store manager, said: "This is an exciting time for the whole team. We are thrilled to have made such a significant investment in Maunds Hatch, and delighted that we have a fantastic new food store with which to serve the community."

Mr Khan added that offers and promotions will be available to mark the re-launch.

"The Co-operative is a community retailer, and we are committed to playing an active role in local life, embracing the area's community spirit," he said.

"The store will be a hub for the local community, and customers will be able to find out what is going on locally, and learn about how The Co-operative can benefit local groups."

concessions, £7.50 for groups of 20+)

Four Harlow schools will perform four different plays, giving the audience a chance to experience the works of The Bard as they have never seen it before.

Bloom and grow forever

ONE of my best ideas for a joke came at a children's party recently," said Adam Bloom. "There was a boy with a big badge saying '9'. I said to him 'you should really give a badge to an 80-year-old as they have more reason to celebrate staying alive for that long - really they have more reason to celebrate then you do.'"

As a dad who can tell funny jokes, Adam is something of a rare breed, and his unconventional comedy style has won him many fans.

But he is also distinguishable for his style of comedy in which he prefers to be observational rather than studious in his preparation.

Even in a quirky line-up of comedians, Adam stands out as unique.

On Friday, November 20, he will share a bill with Pete Firman, Ian Moore, George Egg and compere Dan Evans for the latest edition of Live at Harlow Playhouse.

Adam describes the line-up as "fantastic" having worked with prop comedian George Egg on several occasions and said his "hyper" style will perfectly complement the "deadpan" of Ian Moore.

"The line-up is fantastic, there's a real great mixture," Adam explained.

"Me, George and Dan often come as a trio. George is one of the best prop comedians going and although some people can often look down on props, he is very well respected.

"Pete on the other hand is really a magician, while Ian is very deadpan."

Forty-four-year-old Adam is widely regarded as one of Britain's most inventive stand-ups and has appeared on panel shows such as Mock the Week, Russell Howard's Good News and Never Mind the Buzzcocks.

He has also performed at festivals in Australia, South Africa and has been part of the Canadian Just for Laughs Tour.

With such a glittering CV, does performing on a four-man bill at Harlow Playhouse seem like a step down?

"I have done my own thing in the past, but I find it can get a bit lonely," he said.

"It is nice to have other guys to chat to, even if my solo show is one hour 40, compared to the 20 minutes as part of this.

"When you're touring by yourself the only person you might speak to all day is the sound technician. Some comedians will pay a support act £500 a night for, essentially, company.

"I've performed in Harlow before at The Square. I haven't been to the Playhouse before but I know when an event is organised by Alex (Jarrett from PR company RIP Productions) it will be a great venue - he has the Midas touch.

"Stand-up is fragile and a venue can make or break the performance. My favourite is the Comedy Store in Leicester Square, which has the seats all closely bound together.

"You like audiences to be very close together so they can all react as one. I've played some venues that have been like a rock concert."

Adam has wanted to be a comedian since he was nine and said a revelation came to him when he watched Harry Hill perform as a 22-year-old.

It was then he had the idea for his own style of comedy, putting his "unusual mind" to good use.

"I have always been able to make people laugh just by describing things. I feel kind of proud that I'm able to crack people up just by giving my view of the world.

"I'll make an effort to observe some things about Harlow as I walk up from the station," said Adam.

"The really successful comedians can really do their homework, but I tend to just use what I have seen. I'm not a topical comedian, I don't tend to joke about what I've seen on TV.

"The best jokes need to be inclusive to everyone. I'm not a fan of flatmate jokes, maybe his (a comedian's) flatmate did say something stupid, but then maybe he made it up."

"Instead I like to tell an audience what I've observed through my weird way of looking at life, and the fact it makes them laugh is great."

■ Adam Bloom will be performing as part of Live at the Playhouse on Friday, November 20. Tickets cost £16.50. To buy visit, www.harlowplayhouse.com.

Back where it began for Subways' Billy

AS bad beginnings go, The Subways debut performance at The Square must be up there with the worst of them.

Long before the three-piece were headlining Reading Festival and selling out venues, Billy Lunn's band remember their first time playing in Harlow for all the wrong reasons.

"It was the worst night of my life," laughed Billy.

"We were terrible. We were still at school and for us playing The Square was like performing at Wembley Stadium. We had no idea."

The band have come a long way since their infamous first gig in 2000, but Billy credits The Square as being the place where everything began.

Along with lifelong friends Charlotte Cooper, who plays bass and Josh Morgan, drums, Billy has returned to the Fourth Avenue venue many times – where he even completed a week's work experience.

This was all after their self-confessed worst gig ever.

"After we played we knew we were rubbish and some of the guys from The Square came up to us and we knew they knew we were rubbish," said Billy.

"But even so, they were so supportive and urged us to keep going – saying that we really had something.

"It was because of that we went back and wrote some better songs and that was where it all started."

Fifteen years and four hit albums later Billy is stepping out of The Subways and heading back to square one in a rare solo, acoustic performance.

He will be supporting The Sweeney, the band of Murray Torkildsen (who was compere at The Subways' first gig) on Friday.

Playing alone is not a new venture for the man from Welwyn Garden City, but he insists he has no intention of going it alone full time – with big 2016 plans for his band.

"I really hate not making music," he said.

"I feel I'm at my most depressed when I'm not writing songs, playing shows or recording. I just have to get out there, even just by myself.

"The band have a huge European tour coming up, but while Josh and Charlotte are off doing their own things – I feel a need to be doing something.

"I'm really using these solo-shows as a stop-gap, but it can be quite a nice process and a creative one as I have lots of ideas for songs.

"Of course I'll always write stuff with The Subways in mind. Everything just starts out being on an acoustic guitar but then we'll go into the studio and turn things up to 11," he says, quoting Spinal Tap.

"The Sweeney was one of the bands we all loved growing-up and whenever I see they have a gig I'll always be on the phone to Murray to see if I can support them.

"I'm really looking forward to playing with them again as they are great musicians.

The Subways released their self-titled fourth LP in February and played a series of UK shows throughout the year.

Coming up is the European tour, followed by some dates in America and a big 2016 of festivals.

While Billy admits to not being able to cope without music, he has found the last 12 months tough going with the efforts of producing and recording their own album taking toll.

"It has been so hard. For the first time we have done it all ourselves, and have released the album independently.

"I have a new respect for anyone that has ever mixed and released an album – it was tough.

"But it is always amazing to have it released, and the feeling you have when you see something you have made is being bought and well received is unbelievable.

"We're very happy with the fans reaction to it."

Billy finds it tough to pick out a top achievement for the band – but does have a soft spot for Young For Eternity, the band's debut which spawned the smash hit Rock and Roll Queen.

He says he does take pride in thinking about how three friends in Hertfordshire managed to take on the world.

Now, Billy is married and has settled down somewhat in Ware, and feels able to find a balance between playing in a world-touring band and taking in the slow mundane life at home.

"After 10 years I really do still wonder when I'm going to wake up," he says.

"This is all I wanted to do, ever since I heard Oasis' Supersonic I knew I had to play the guitar.

"The band was formed when me and Josh decided to enter a battle of the bands at The Square and we brought in Charlotte, my girlfriend of the time, to play bass."

Billy is now able to laugh at his first ever gig and promises that his solo-performance will be a lot better.

"I can feel more nervous playing by myself in a small venue than I would in front of thousands."

"Obviously it's a lot quieter, and I may even ask a girl in the audience to come and join me as there is no way I could sing Charlotte's parts."

Billy Lunn is supporting The Sweeney, at The Square, Fourth Avenue, Harlow on Friday, October 30. Tickets cost £7 and can be bought in advance from www.thesquareharlow.com/listings/

SPYING GAME: Daniel Craig in his fourth outing as James Bond in Spectre

Craig's 007 falls flat in underpowered adventure

Spectre

THRILLER (12A) 148 minutes
Director: Sam Mendes
Starring: Daniel Craig, Christoph Waltz, Lea Seydoux, Ralph Fiennes, Ben Whishaw, Andrew Scott, Naomie Harris, Dave Bautista, Jesper Christensen

Daniel Craig's licence to kill as Ian Fleming's suave secret agent comes full circle in Spectre, a robust yet emotionally underpowered tale of espionage and dark family secrets that ends with a series of whimpers rather than an almighty bang.

If Skyfall popped a cork on a muscular new era for 007, becoming the highest grossing film of all time in the UK, then Spectre is the morning after, when the Champagne has gone flat, leftover snacks are starting to go stale and someone has fallen asleep face down on the sofa.

That could be any of the four screenwriters, who doze off after the tour-de-force opening sequence at a Mexican Day of the Dead parade, and allow plot holes and lapses in logic to pock their narrative.

How can Bond travel around the globe unseen when he has nanobots in his bloodstream so M16 and the enemy can track his movements?

Would a brilliant operative like Q really whip out his laptop on public transport and conduct vital forensic analysis without a second thought for security protocols?

Death sequences are anti-climaxes and the central love story, which is supposed to kindle doubts in Bond's mind about his loyalty to Queen and country, barely smoulders, let alone melts celluloid.

The newly-appointed M, Gareth Mallory (Ralph Fiennes), battles with political forces, including Max Denbigh (Andrew Scott), to protect the integrity of M16 following a merger with MI5.

A cryptic message reveals ghosts from Bond's past and 007 (Craig) follows a chain of evidence that leads to Dr Madeleine Swann (Lea Seydoux), daughter of fugitive Mr White (Jesper Christensen), who was last seen in Quantum Of Solace.

Aided by technical wizard Q (Ben Whishaw) and plucky agent Eve Moneypenny (Naomie Harris), Bond criss-crosses the globe in his Aston Martin DB10 and infiltrates a menacing organisation named SPECTRE, fronted by the enigmatic Franz Oberhauser (Christoph Waltz).

Rome, Tokyo, Altaussee in Austria, Tangier and London provide a picturesque backdrop to Bond's escapades as he meets his physical match in hulking henchman Mr Hinx (Dave Bautista).

Spectre was always going to struggle to meet expectations, but it's disappointing how far short this 24th big screen mission falls.

At 148 minutes, the film overstates its welcome and a number of key scenes overrun.

Dame Judi Dench's absence is palpable but Fiennes and Whishaw are gifted expanded roles and come into their own, while Harris is surplus to requirements.

When one of the characters rebukes Bond's recklessness and tells the agent he has gone too far, nothing could be further from the truth. Spectre doesn't go far enough.

don't think people have seen before, but having someone like Dave, who spent most of his career being thrown around and throwing other people around, he really knows what he's doing and he's incredibly safe. I'm obviously the one that isn't safe," he adds with a grin. "But he moves so quickly and is so agile, and for me, I think the sequences with him are all the more terrifying because of his presence."

Naturally, the Bond franchise has its loyal fans, some of whom have been known to mix fact with fiction.

Asked if he's ever experienced any overly-zealous fans attempting to 'take Bond on', Craig smiles and says: "Sometimes, but it's okay. You just smile sweetly, it's all good. Sometimes people also say, 'You look like Daniel Craig', and I'll say, 'really? Thank you'."

He and wife Rachel Weisz, who won an Oscar for her role in 2005's The Constant Gardener, are one of Hollywood's most private couples, but he doesn't ever regret taking on one of cinema's most iconic roles.

"No, not for a minute," insists the actor, who has a daughter, Ella, from his first marriage to actress Fiona Loudon.

"I was aware of that [the loss of privacy that could come with the role] going in, and I've remained as private as I possibly can," he adds. "That for me is the most important thing, but I've also managed to make the movies, which are also incredibly important to me."

"I love making these films and the chance to come and make a movie after Skyfall was a huge challenge," Craig concludes, but he offers up some advice to whoever does get involved with making any future Bond films...

"Just make them better."

Spooky Saira's on the run

SAIRAwith Masterchef
semi-finalist Saira Hamilton

T'S been a difficult time lately, with ill-health affecting some of my close friends, so the world has seemed a slightly forbidding place in the last few weeks.

So what better way to combat some of that gloom than with bright green tutus and leg-warmers and raising money for three equally deserving medical charities?

I took part in the inaugural Relay Run at Hartham Common, Hertford, alongside my wonderful business coach Leigh and some of her friends and colleagues.

It was the first event of its kind in the UK before being rolled out all over the world, with the next one planned for New York.

The race was run in teams of four, with each of us completing one lap of the 4km course before handing over the baton to the next runner.

The dress code for the team was to wear something bright green, and it certainly helped I think to get lots of support over the course, although I did get some funny looks walking back to the car park.

The last time I ran a timed race was back in my Egypt days, when I ran the Luxor 12km race, which started at the Temple of Queen Hatshepsut, past the hot air balloons taking off over the Valley of the Kings and continued past the Colossi of Memnon and Luxor Temple.

But I was younger, slimmer and fitter in those days, so I was pretty nervous about this outing, even if it was only a third of that distance.

I finished, which was pleasing, although my time was pretty shocking. I've always said I was built for comfort, not speed, and besides, my legs are a lot shorter than most people's. You can't expect me to cover the same distance as normal-sized people in the same time.

Well, that's my excuse, and I'm sticking to it.

The fancy dress for our race put me in mind of Hallowe'en.

Not that you can avoid Hallowe'en these days – it's everywhere. I hear a lot of oldies – and I include myself – bemoaning the rise of Hallowe'en as an event in the British calendar, but you have to say it really has caught on.

The shops are full of Hallowe'en paraphernalia, and all the young people I know are particularly keen on the whole thing. My daughter has been in Canada on a school trip and has been getting to understand how huge Hallowe'en is on the other side of the Atlantic. They have even been in the pumpkin patch picking out the best specimens for their carvings.

On a recent visit to Pearce's Farm Shop in Puckeridge, I was impressed by the massive display and choice of pumpkins on offer. In fact, the amount of pumpkins I've seen over the last few weeks makes me think that every man, woman and child in East Herts must be carving a jack-o-lantern this year.

PROPERTY TALK >with NIGEL LEWIS

Windmill's not for turning

LIFE in a windmill isn't all plain sailing; for starters, it's tough to find furniture that fits the curved walls. You also need to be fit to tackle the dozens of stairs to go up to bed each night – but the pay-off is a truly unique home and bigger and better views as you climb to the top.

And it's a unique opportunity – very few windmills that have been converted into homes come up for sale.

And the sails won't keep you awake on this one, as they were removed a year after the mill was converted to steam power in 1886. It did its job milling grain until 1926, but fell into disrepair and ended up as a place for cattle to sleep in until it was converted into a three-bedroom family home in 1975.

Current owners Nick and Catherine Edwards have decided to move on after doing a massive restoration job during the ten years they've lived here and the 200-year-old, 73ft windmill in Pilling, Lancashire, is now for sale with a price tag of £495,000.

The pair paid £310,000 for the mill in 2004 and fitted it with a traditional Lancashire boat top cap in 2008, restoring it as the tallest on the Fylde coast. A year later, they put a traditional balcony around the outside.

Set over five floors, the windmill is 30ft wide at the base, tapering to 18ft at the top, and it's deceptively spacious; a modern family kitchen is in what used to be the old drying kiln, while there's a large lounge and TV room on the second floor. The master bedroom is on the fourth floor with access via a spiral staircase and the property also has a garage with adjoining workshop.

Historic property was a Poldark hit

WHILE heartthrob Aidan Turner smouldered recently as leading man Ross Poldark, the BBC's popular period drama was an even bigger hit in the 1970s.

TV audiences lapped up the sex, scandal and lavish costumes, and the racy show had 15 million viewers hooked.

Both screen adaptations of Winston Graham's novels have capitalised on the Cornish countryside and coast. And back in the '70s, film crews spotted this Elizabethan manor house and used it for some of the backdrops.

Three-bedroom, Grade II-listed Keigwin Place in Mousehole, Penzance, is on the market at £400,000 and would also fascinate history buffs.

Dating back to the late 1500s, when the village was attacked by the Spanish in 1595, only this and a neighbouring property survived. The resident squire sent his family away while he stayed to fight the invaders – killing seven in front of the property before he was shot by a cannon ball. Incredibly, it's still on display in the window.

The house has its original stairs leading to the first floor hall, which incorporates a trip stair to catch unwary intruders, while the first-floor drawing room has a barrel vaulted ceiling and large open fireplace.

Previous owners would have made use of steps up to the window in the master bedroom, where approaching ships could be sighted, while another quirky feature is a bakehouse oven in the downstairs bedroom, dating from 1578.

Suffragette flats a timely reminder

OSCAR-winner Jennifer Lawrence was applauded for her honesty last week when she revealed that she had earned considerably less than her fellow actors in the hit movie American Hustle.

Co-star Bradley Cooper and other A-listers including Emma Watson have backed her call for pay equality – something actresses were fighting for a century ago.

Some were members of the Actresses' Franchise League, a suffragette society founded in 1908 to stage propaganda plays. These early foot soldiers of the feminist movement joined other plucky women in the quest for equal rights – highlighted in the recent film Suffragette.

Famous female thespians of the day, Ellen Terry, Sybil Thorndike and Lillie Langtry all met at this house on Bedford Street between Covent Garden and The Strand. It would have been familiar to many of the actresses, who'd used the room as a rehearsal studio when it was the home of Ben Greet's Acting Academy.

It's now been converted into four apartments and a penthouse, two of which have been named Emmeline (Pankhurst) and Millicent (Fawcett) after famous women's libbers. Prices at Bedford House start from £995,000 for a one-bedroom apartment and go up to £5,500,000 for the three-bedroom penthouse.

With period features, the penthouse has views across London's South Bank and the London Eye from a private roof terrace and sun room.

Georgian pile's brush with fame

Mike Leigh's artistic biopic Mr Turner won its star, Timothy Spall, the best actor award at Cannes, but was the most complained-about film last year.

The British Board of Film Classification fielded 19 complaints about a scene in the 12A rated film, about Spall's clenched – clothed – buttocks.

However, grumbles aside, the actor's visceral performance as painter JMW Turner, full of sweating passion with a huge repertoire of grunts and coughs, was hailed by critics as the finest of his career.

When film-makers were looking for backdrops for the film, they turned to this Georgian mansion in London's Woolwich. Grade II-listed Rush Grove House was built in 1816, enlarged over the years and bought by the Admiralty to become the home of General Sir Anthony Blaxland Stransham, commandant of the Royal Marine Barracks. It was sold by the Army in 1986 and used as a family home until 2012, when a developer snapped it up for renovation before inviting in the film crew.

At the bottom of the perfectly-manicured lawn sits Mulgrave Pond, a rarity for London properties and older than the house itself. During the First World War, it provided water for the local hospital via underground conduits.

With four floors, six bedrooms and three bathrooms, agent Foxtons says great care has been taken to pay homage to the property's Georgian features while installing modern touches, such as the 27ft kitchen and immaculate walk-in showers decorated in black and white tiles.

It's on the market for £2.85m.

Much-improved family home

THIS detached four-bedroom home is situated in Sawbridgeworth. It has plenty of space to the front for off-street parking and a spacious rear garden.

Accommodation on the ground floor consists of a large L-shaped entrance hallway, fitted kitchen, separate utility room, dining room, large sitting room and ground-floor WC.

The kitchen has an integrated four-ring gas hob, double oven, dishwasher and fridge/freezer. There is space for a microwave.

The utility room has an integrated freezer and space for a washing machine and tumble dryer. There is potential to create a large open-plan kitchen/dining room by moving the utility into the garage, which the neighbours have already done.

On the first floor there are four double bedrooms. The master bedroom has built-in wardrobes and an en-suite shower room with double-shower unit.

The spacious family bathroom, which serves the three other bedrooms, has a bath with shower over which is independently controlled, and there is a pump in the airing cupboard ensuring good water pressure.

Bedrooms two and three have wonderful far-reaching countryside views.

To the front of the property is a private, block-paved driveway providing off-street parking for four cars. The driveway leads to a double garage with electric door.

There is a pretty front garden and gated side access to the private and secluded rear garden, which measures approximately 50ft deep and 40ft wide.

The principal garden has a patio area leading down to an enclosed lawn area with a brick boundary. A further step down leads to the base of the garden, which is laid to shingle and ideal for a shed.

There are established trees and shrubs between the lawn and boundary fencing on all sides.

The vendors have improved the property during their period of ownership. Improvements include a replacement boiler (wall-mounted in the garage), replacement PVC double-glazed external windows and doors throughout, and a modern gas fire with limestone surround in the sitting room.

CREATE A DRAMA: Deck out a chimney breast in a patterned wallpaper and set it off with an elaborate mirror above a beautiful fireplace. This Osborne and Little wallpaper sets the scene for a dramatic scheme. www.osborneandlittle.com, 020 8812 3000

Hallowe'en inspiration for impact

Hallowe'en is creeping up on us again. It's scary to think that it's just around the corner, and that means that whether you're a fan or not, it's time to carve your pumpkin, drape your house in cobwebs and stock up on sweets for the excited trick or treaters.

Now while it might seem quite preposterous to take inspiration from Hallowe'en for your home, there are things that can be taken away from this celebration that can inject fun and drama into your home all year round.

Let me take you down the rabbit hole and delve into a theatrical world filled with marvellous mirrors, extravagant fireplaces and decadent wallpapers.

Mirror, mirror on the wall; who's the fairest of them all? Now you might not need a mirror for malicious deeds like an evil queen, but a striking mirror can really anchor an otherwise plain wall and give a room a real sense of personality.

When choosing a mirror, it's important to think about the scale of the wall to choose a design which will adequately fill the space, but be sure to leave a generous border surrounding it.

Ornate mirrors are ideal for giving a room character; try a Venetian style with bevelled glass for a pretty look, or for a more gothic twist, search for a Victorian mirror with decorative embellishments encircling the edges. Just think, what fairy tale would be complete without a mirror, so be sure to add it to your interiors.

Fireplaces are for so much more than just warming a room. I bet at the very mention of it you've pictured huddling round a roaring fire, listening to stories tucked under a blanket.

That's the thing with fireplaces; they're so iconic and provoke nostalgic feelings. They have a real sense of grandeur and history which gives so much to a room. What's more, interiors wise they can be an excellent focal point in a room.

If you're lucky enough to have an original fireplace, spruce it up with a good clean to bring out its original features. Unfortunately, in many period homes, these lovely pieces have been ripped out, but don't despair; visit a reclamation yard or check out options on eBay; or many manufacturers offer great vintage-inspired fireplaces that can easily be added. Don't just leave it at that; accessorise your fireplace to really accentuate this feature in the room. Add a mirror or painting above and consider candles and other beautiful heirlooms that you can display.

I'm a fan of beautiful wallpaper and so it might not come as a surprise for me to say that if you're looking to create drama in a room, wallpaper should really be high up on your list.

A wallpaper with a bold and elaborate design can give a room real impact and there are certain types that you should head to for a little gothic style.

Vintage white and black line drawings (or lithographs for the design savvy) have such character and can give a room a real sense of history. There are some fabulous wallpapers that incorporate this style of drawing that can add intrigue and mystery to your home.

Take inspiration from Cole and Son's Wood wallpaper, which features a repeated drawing of a tree and feels both slightly spooky and calming at the same time.

A striped wallpaper is hard to ignore and in monochromatic colours this becomes even more exaggerated. As it's such a strong look, it really must be paired with neutral colours to give the scheme a sense of balance.

You could also consider what type of room to use this in and save for hallways and dining rooms, where you want to impress guests or invigorate the senses.

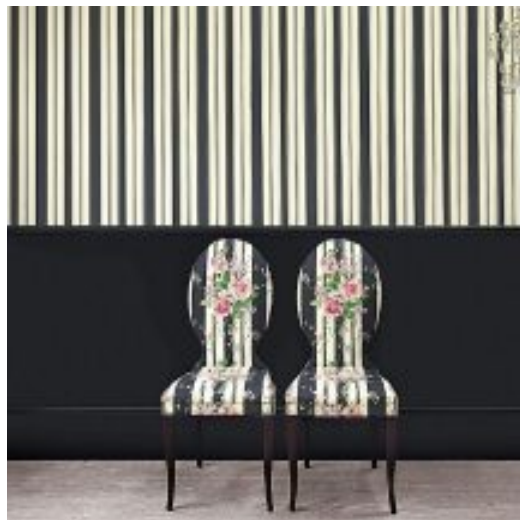

Baroque wallpapers are ideal for giving a room a little va va voom with their repeated and elaborate floral motifs.

I love how feminine and glamorous these styles can be and they're great in a variety of rooms whether it's used as a feature wall in a lounge or bedroom, or lining an impressive hallway.

To keep a baroque wallpaper feeling contemporary, try subtle shades such as pale grey or mauve to lighten the overall look.

DECADENT: Add a feminine touch to a room with a baroque wallpaper. Opt for a soft colour to keep it feeling modern and sophisticated. www.osborneandlittle.com, 020 8812 3000

PARALLEL LINES: Stripes add impact to any interior, and in a monochrome colourway it will be impossible to ignore, especially with this Sanderson wallpaper. www.sanderson-uk.com 0844 543 9500

INTO THE TREES: Wallpapers featuring real drawings can give a room a real sense of character. Try the Woods wallpaper by Cole and Son. www.cole-and-son.com, 020 7376 4628

What our customers say

"I first met Ed when I decided to purchase an investment property to let out. He phoned me regularly to say that he was still looking out for me and literally a few weeks later he called to say he thought he had found exactly what I was looking for.

Everything went through smoothly and I was so impressed with Intercounty's service and particularly with Ed that I decided to give them the job of finding me a tenant and to maintain the property on my behalf."

High quality cars and service

WHEN it comes to finding an affordably-priced, high quality used car, Weatherwhites on Broadley Common, Nazeing, will take a lot of beating.

From small city cars to MPV people carriers, this used car centre has it all, and preparation standards are particularly high, whatever the price of the car you choose to purchase.

What's more, every vehicle comes complete with reassuring six-months warranty cover along with a fresh MOT and service.

While Weatherwhites was established more than 35 years ago, today it's owned and managed by the team behind the highly successful used car dealership, Sterling Car Sales in Sheering, which took over the cars sales operation around six years ago and then the service and repair workshop on October 1 this year.

Tom Rosier and Stuart Gurden own both Weatherwhites and Sterling Car Sales, the former dealership focusing mainly on the budget end of the market, while the latter targets the prestige sector; but offering its used vehicles at surprising affordable prices.

Tom says: "We understand that for most people, next to purchasing a home, a car is the next most costly item that we are ever likely to buy.

"It amounts to a significant amount of money, so therefore, we take great care to maintain the highest levels of preparation, whatever the cost of the vehicle a customer chooses to purchase.

"We're also able to provide cost-effective finance to match a customer's individual requirements, and our considerable motor trade experience enables to select the best cars for our stock."

The busy workshop operation, where all stock vehicles are carefully prepared, is also open for use by all motorists. The experienced technicians can perform servicing, repairs and MOTs on all makes and model of car, delivering quality workmanship at competitive labour rates.

Stuart comments: "We've managed to build up a very considerable amount of repeat business with both local businesses and the general public buying vehicles and using our services. We'll always do our utmost to provide our customers with the best possible service at all times."

Weatherwhites are also currently offering a free winter check. If you'd like peace of mind brought through the knowledge that your vehicle is ready for the colder months ahead, you can either contact Weatherwhites using the details below, or pop into the site in Broadley Common, where one of the technicians will be happy to help.

You can find Weatherwhites of Nazeing on Broadley Common, Epping Road, Nazeing, Waltham Abbey EN9 2DH.

To find out more, call (01992) 893751 or visit www.weatherwhites.co.uk and see those affordably-priced cars online. For all your MOT and service requirements call (01992) 893717.

For prestige cars at surprisingly affordable prices, you'll find sister dealership, Sterling Car Sales, at Jacks Yard, The Street, Sheering, Bishop's Stortford, CM22 7LY. Phone (01279) 734750 or log onto www.sterlingcarsales.co.uk.

'Soft tries' cost Rams derby bragging rights

Defence proves costly as Clapton end winning run

RFU London Division Three
North East

Harlow ..... 25
Epping Upper Clapton ..... 31

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

RAMS skipper Shaun Roberts bemoaned the "two soft tries" that were given away, rather than the five missed kicks which prevented his side from taking the derby bragging rights.

A large crowd gathered at Ram Gorse as a fierce old rivalry was played out in RFU London Division Three North East for the first time.

But it was Thornwood Common-based Epping Upper Clapton who returned with the points in a 31-25 thriller.

Roberts said: "We certainly took all our scoring chances. It just goes to show making mistakes in games against high-quality opposition – you are going to get punished."

"If we had not made those mistakes we would have won the game."

Harlow demonstrated their power at the line-out – all five of their tries were scored this way.

Difficult

But because they were close to the touchline, all of Ryan McGlone's kicks were difficult and not a single one was converted.

Harlow also missed fly-half Danny Smith, who is not due back until mid-November after breaking a bone in his hand.

Both teams had 100 per cent records in the league, so something had to give.

The hosts were up on ten early on and scored two tries through Danny Fitzgerald and the skipper.

Clapton fought back and exposed some weaknesses in the Harlow defensive set-up, resulting in two tries after a period of possession.

The visitors added one conversion and led 12-10 at the break. Clapton scored a third try after the break.

The Rams fought back again and Darren Hawkins touched down two tries.

But Clapton then broke up to the other end and forged a decisive 24-20 lead with another seven-point try.

A fifth try from Epping made it 31-20.

Kain Claridge finished off another move from a winning line-out, but again the kick was unsuccessful from out wide.

The visitors held on and remain top of the division with an unblemished record.

Roberts added: "We scored five good tries but they were scored out wide and they were difficult kicks."

"We conceded two soft tries, but we out-played them for the majority of the game."

"If we give away two tries every game we are going to struggle in these top-of-the-table clashes."

"The boys were devastated after the game. I feel proud that 16 of our 18 squad came through our youth ranks."

Harlow and Clapton have a week off now due to the Rugby World Cup Final.

The Rams hope to have influential tight head prop Peter Forest back in a fortnight. He injured a knee playing for England Police against Australia Police in a Test in September.

Winter comes and medals will be won

HARLOW Penguins sent a squad of 17 senior swimmers to the Essex Winter Championships at Basildon.

The team achieved outstanding results against the best swimmers in Essex.

Penguins' outstanding performer of the meet was Hayden Thomas (pictured above), who dominated the 50m breaststroke, winning the title in 30.59sec.

Hayden followed this up with two silver medals: in the 200m breaststroke, where he finished second in a season best time of 2min 29.21sec, and the 100m breaststroke, where he set a personal best (PB) time of 1:06.75.

Mason Arnold was a double medallist, he claimed second in the 200m butterfly in 2:13.25, and his time of 59.76 in the 100m butterfly sealed a bronze medal. Mason showed his all-round ability, also qualifying for the finals of the 100m freestyle (54.42) and the 100m individual medley (1:02.37).

With Mason in the 100m freestyle final were Lee Baker and Bradley Veitch.

Lee claimed bronze in 53.72 and Bradley produced a superb PB of 53.95 for fourth spot.

Success

It was a good weekend for Bradley, who also set a PB of 1:58.55 in the 200m freestyle which placed him third.

Penguins' breaststroke swimmers achieved notable success over the weekend.

Meg Wickham, swimming in her first Winter Championships, claimed third spot in the 200m in a PB of 2:48.93 and was closely followed by Caitlin Mascall and Olivia Holleman in PBs of 2:51.09 and 2:53.27 respectively.

Meg narrowly missed out on a further medal in the 100m final, finishing fourth. Her time of 1:16.35 in the heat was a new PB.

Also qualifying for the final was Catlin Mascall, whose time of 1:16.65 was also a PB.

In the 50m event, Meg recorded 35.95 and Caitlin 37.09, both times were PBs.

Jamie McLaughlin (26.81) claimed third place in the 50m butterfly final.

"Overall this was a great weekend for Penguin swimmers. Medallists and finalists aside, Harvey Bannister, Jack Mansfield, Ewan Bulloch, Cary Brealey and Emily Hills all set new personal best times and this sets them up as they prepare for the Eastern Regional Championships in two weeks' time," said club spokesman Martin Stringer.

Essex Winter Championships, overall standings: 1. Romford Town 267 points; 2. Basildon 214.5; 3. Barking & Dagenham 152; 4. Chelmsford 125; 5. Colchester 113; 6. Harlow Penguins 112.5.

Harlow show spirit to stay top

East Men's Hockey League,
Division Six South East

Brentwood IV ..... 2
Harlow ..... 3

WINNING a title is about grinding out results, and that is exactly what Harlow did as they overcame rivals Brentwood in a five-goal thriller on Saturday.

With captain Ben Light out injured, the midfield had to be reshuffled with defender Kim Harvey starting in the centre.

Harlow suffered a blow on ten minutes when influential defender James Morris was struck by the ball above an eye.

He went to hospital for stitches, prompting another reshuffle.

Brentwood then took the lead when their striker was left unmarked four yards from goal and deflected home.

Minutes before half-time Brentwood opened Harlow up again, forcing a smart save from keeper Rich Norris.

Harlow levelled soon after the re-start. Striker Adam Ottley's shot was blocked by a defender's body on route to goal, resulting in a penalty flick.

Ottley stepped up himself and rifled home.

Brentwood immediately responded, breaking down the wing before pulling the ball across the D. Keeper Norris made an initial save, but the follow up on the third attempt was bundled over the line by a Brentwood player.

Stung, Harlow set about pressing Brentwood again, forcing errors in their defence as Joe Symonds linked neatly with Mike Adams, winning a penalty corner.

Slick passing in the D set free Andy Boughtwood whose shot was blocked on the line, again by a defender's body, and another penalty flick was given, where Joe Symonds tucked home.

With 12 minutes left, a key tactical decision was made to forfeit one of the wingers to bring both strikers into play and it paid off.

Harlow forced another penalty corner, and this one was swiftly struck towards the back post, deflected up off a defender's stick, and expertly volleyed home by Benn Hagger.

The last ten minutes Harlow kept possession, stroking the ball around the midfield, leaving Brentwood chasing shadows until the final whistle went. "Harlow can take great pride in their performance today, it was a true, battling, grizzly, performance, the kind you'd expect from a team looking to dominate the league," said player Rhys Mace.

Harlow remain top with five wins out of six.

Hope for Ladies heading into top test as they edge Loughts

Essex Women's Hockey
League, Premier Division
Old Loughts III ..... 2

The hosts began the game on top but strong defensive work from Sam Care and Lara Horrax kept them at bay until a short corner was squeezed in from a tight angle.

Harlow fought back and Georgina Esterhuysen-Smith and Rowena Rickett worked well together on the left. Kelly Ball then crossed to Emma Tweddle who equalised from close range.

Old Loughts regained the lead when a ball broke through to their fast winger, who took the ball around Laura Hay in goal to score.

Not to be beaten Charlotte Byers dribbled along the back line and crossed for Ball to finish and square the match up again.

After half-time Harlow continued with the excellent passing and bossed the game.

They took the lead for the first time in the game when Ball set up Esterhuysen-Smith to finish smartly.

Old Loughts came back strongly and had a number of short corners but good saves from Hay kept Harlow in the lead.

She was helped out by a spectacular block by Care, saving a certain goal.

Harlow went close to a fourth goal with shots from Ball, Chambers and Byers.

Harlow host second-placed Southend & Benfleet on Saturday in what will be a very tough test.

Switzerland top time for Harlow runner

SWITZERLAND might be the home of clocks and chocolate – but it was also the destination for a picturesque marathon.

At the Greenwich 10K, Andy Kinney was 166th out of 261 finishers in 57:05.

At the Gunpowder parkrun 5K at Waltham Abbey, Paul Schroder was 38th out of 116 finishers in 23:58.

It's a Bears' picnic as indiscipline is costly

Herts County Basketball League, Premier Division

Berkhamsted Bears . . . . . 105
Harlow Hawks . . . . . 71

A SPIRITED display was not enough as Harlow Hawks suffered a heavy defeat to a strong Bears team.

New recruit and point guard Jimmy Fuhrmann looked impressive on his debut for Hawks, scoring ten points.

In the first quarter, Hawks struggled to get points on the board and had seven after five minutes, with Bears scoring 16 points.

Both teams then went on scoring streaks with Hawks' Danny Cohen and Lee Morris both scoring important three pointers to stop the hosts extending their lead.

The quarter ended with Bears 25-17 up.

Berkhamsted had scored ten points after five minutes of the second quarter.

Fouls then proved costly as the Bears were able to take a ten-point run and extend their lead by 15 points, sending the Bears to the line for nine free throws.

The quarter ended with Bears 51-37 ahead.

The Bears stepped up a gear in the second half.

However, Hawks U18 player Josh Haddow, who played very well against two former National League players, scored three baskets back to back in the opening five minutes.

Rimantas Norkeliunas and Harry Patterson also added to the Hawks total, but fouls again were Harlow's worst enemy.

The quarter ended with Bears 78-52 in front.

By the fourth quarter the Bears were ahead by 26 points, which put a comeback out of reach for the Hawks.

The Bears opened the fourth quarter with an 8-0 streak.

Three pointers from Patterson, Richard Whytock and Morris kept the score respectable.

However, indiscipline again allowed Bears to finish 34 points ahead.

HARLOW HAWKS (point scorers): Fuhrmann 10, Whytock 5, Patterson 6, Cohen 13, Friedner 2, Haddow 13, Rozgonyuk 2, Norkeliunas 11, Morris 6, Burgess 3.

Ten men of Iron end Hawks' FA Cup dream

Harlow cannot turn screw after second-half red card

Emirates FA Cup, fourth qualifying round

Braintree Tn . . . . . 2
Harlow Tn . . . . . 0

by Alan Scott

ASSISTANT boss Spencer Knight admitted some players froze as Harlow Town paid the price for a bitterly disappointing first-half display in their 2-0 FA Cup loss at Braintree Town.

Hawks keeper Niklas Freund made a series of fantastic saves to keep his side in the match in front of nearly 750 fans – almost half from Harlow.

But Harlow were unable to take advantage of the extra man after the Iron lost Taylor Miles for a second yellow card with more than 20 minutes left and the score 1-0.

Braintree grabbed a second right at the death, with Michael Cheek scoring his second.

Knight said: "We are a little bit disappointed with the first half. We showed them too much respect. They are good players, they are playing at that level for a reason."

"The second half we showed a bit of intent and we had a go. We are proud of the lads. Jared Small had a chance."

"If you look at our squad, we've only got two or three players who are used to playing in big games week in, week out."

"These [Braintree] players play in the Conference every week, and it's tough. You don't know how the players are going to react until they are in that situation. Some of them froze."

"Man for man we weren't close enough to people. I don't think it's down to organisation. There's nobody more meticulous and organised than our gaffer [Danny Chapman]. But they [Braintree] are better players in general."

"It wasn't one of Junior Dadson's better days today, but he's unbelievable on his day."

The hosts deservedly led through Michael Cheek's 14th-minute opener. Alex Woodyard's neat through ball caught out the statuesque Harlow defence and Cheek tucked the ball low into the bottom right corner.

Complexion

Miles' yellow cards changed the complexion of the match after challenges on sub Small and left-back Layne Eadie in quick succession saw him head off for an early bath midway through the second half.

Harlow had a go and both Fabian Simms and Small had good chances, but were denied.

In the 94th minute – with Freund pushed up for a free-kick, the hosts broke and Cheek rolled the ball in superbly from almost on the halfway line.

Left-back Eadie added: "First half I don't think we played well at all. Nervous was probably the right word."

"In the second half we showed intensity and a higher tempo. But it took too long to get going."

Davis: 'Not a lot to Read about'

BRAINTREE Town skipper Kenny Davis was pleased his side were able to keep Hawks striker Alex Read under wraps in the FA Cup fourth qualifying round tie.

Midfielder Davis, who helped Harlow Town to promotion to the Ryman Premier Division in the 2005-06 season, returned from a hamstring injury to pay against his old side.

The Iron are managed by ex-Harlow midfielder Danny Cowley, who played under Eddie McCluskey and Ian Allinson around the turn of the century at the old Harlow Sportcentre ground.

Davis said: "We didn't see much of their striker [Alex Read]. We had heard a lot about him before the game."

"I thought we cancelled them out really well. I don't think he had a shot today."

Read has scored more than 100 goals for Harlow but, along with Junior Dadson, was certainly missing a spark.

The pair did not have a sniff of goal all afternoon.

Davis said: "It's good for them that he has scored a lot of goals – I'm surprised he's still there to be honest with you."

"They are a strong team and I expect them to do well this year."

Cowley said: "We thought their game plan would be to counter attack. The game is about putting the ball in the back of the net and we didn't do that. As a consequence it probably aged me about five years."

Big Cats pounce

LEVETT Essex Leopards will look to build on a perfect weekend when they host Manchester Magic at the Brentwood Centre on Sunday, tip-off 4pm.

The Big Cats opened their defence of the Division One title with a stunning 89-57 victory at Worthing Thunder on Saturday, before edging out Westminster Warriors 70-69 to reach the last eight of the National Cup.

The two games between the sides last season both resulted in home wins.

On Saturday, Justin Hitchman added 17 points and five rebounds to beat Worthing.

The following day saw another thriller for Leopards supporters as the Big Cats set up a clash with Derby Trailblazers at the Brentwood Centre on Sunday, November 15.

Westminster were dispatched to send Leopards into the quarter-finals.

Will Ashby bagged 15 points, with Van Beest adding 12 points and seven rebounds.

Meanwhile, Larissa Coley won the girls' U17 Band Three.

DEBUT: Athlete Chiassaro

Chiassaro makes World Champs bow

RICHARD CHIASSARO was understandably disappointed but will still cherish his debut at the IPC World Championships in Doha.

It has been an incredible adventure for the Harlow Athletic Club member in Qatar, who was representing Great Britain.

Chiassaro, of Seymours in Harlow, battled stifling 40 degree heat in Qatar.

He competed in the T54 wheelchair 100 metres, 200m and 400m, but failed to progress to the finals of all three events.

The closest he came was in the 100m when he clocked a time of 14.80sec but narrowly missed out on the second and final qualifying spot from his heat as he finished third.

He said: "I placed just outside my world ranking in the sprints. I would have liked to make the finals but I was beaten by some class athletes."

Chiassaro, who has spina bifida, has enjoyed a fantastic year where he has closed the gap on the world's best and remains in the top six in the world rankings in his specialist events, the 100m and 200m.

"Just finished my last race, the 400m, and that's pretty much what I expected," he added.

"I have learnt a lot from racing at this level and know what I need to work on."

Chiassaro now heads out to Australia for a Great Britain training camp.

He might not have got as far as he hoped in Doha, but he can be justifiably proud of representing Team GB, a notch on the ladder of his ultimate goal of making the team for the Paralympics in Rio de Janeiro in 2016.

He added: "I am going to Oz for a month in January for some heavy road training and I also get my new chair."

"So hopefully that will give me what I need for Rio selection."

Chiassaro also paid tribute to his coach Jenni Banks and British Paralympic Association head coach Paula Dunn.

"Thanks to Jenni Banks and Paula Dunn for giving me the chance to compete and learn what I have," he added.

"Very disappointed with being nowhere near my times this season."

Chiassaro trains every day at Mark Hall Sportscentre in Old Harlow.

Tokyo rising as Naomi gets better and better

Athlete targets English Champs joy on road to 2020

By Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

AS the curtain closes on a phenomenal outdoor season for rising Harlow athletic star Naomi Harryman, the multi-eventer has already drawn up her aims for next year.

The 17-year-old Harlow Athletic Club member's target is to represent Great Britain at the 2020 Olympic Games in Tokyo, but in 2016 she aims to continue her incredible progress by taking gold in the English Pentathlon Championships.

The highlight of 2015 was her gold-medal winning performance in the long jump at the English Schools National Championships in Gateshead in July.

Her goal is selection for the Great Britain senior team when she's older.

She said: "My ambition and belief is that I can win and make the GB team as a senior athlete."

"I have moved into the U20 age group so competition will be tough but hopefully I will become Essex county champion in at least two events - long jump and heptathlon."

"I also hope to win the English Schools' heptathlon and long jump and rank in the top three in the UK for at least heptathlon and long jump."

When asked how she would feel if selected to compete in the Olympics for Team GB, she said: "I would feel like all the hard work has finally paid off and I would very much be honoured to be representing my country."

Having been inspired by London 2012 Olympic champion Jessica Ennis-Hill, the confident teenager is hoping she can emulate late the Sheffield multi-eventer's achievements in the future.

"She competes in the same events as me and gives me targets to eventually beat - hopefully," Naomi said.

Certainly time is on Naomi's side as multi eventers mature and get stronger into their late 20s - Ennis-Hill was actually 26 when she won her first ever Olympic gold medal.

Already Naomi's best long jump (5.92m) is not a huge amount shorter than her hero Ennis-Hill's (6.51m).

She trains at Mark Hall Sportcentre in Harlow with her Harlow Athletic Club coach.

Priority

"I keep an organised plan allocating time to both school and athletics. At this stage getting my A-levels is a priority," she said.

Her outdoor season might have ended but the work does not stop as she is already preparing for the indoor season, where she expects to improve on her performances earlier this year when she was the East Region long jump champion.

Having conquered many of her rivals in the U17 age group, when she won silver in both the English Schools Championships' long jump and the England Athletics U17 Indoor Combined Events Championships' pentathlon, she now needs to make her mark on the U20 age group.

Being a year older will help her as she gears up for her second year at the U20 age group - most of the girls are just two years older than her now!

Naomi has received a grant from SportsAid to help pay for her training.

Tyler's top of the lot for super crop of colts

HARLOW Cricket Club's successful youth section took pride of place at its annual presentation evening.

The youth teams scooped five of the eight team trophies in the West Essex district, winning the U13 and U15 Cup and the league title for the U9s, U10s and U15s.

Principally a bowler Tyler's figures for 2015 were: 131 overs, 28 maidens, 416 runs, 33 wickets.

His best bowling figures were six wickets for 30 runs against Chelmsford in July. He broke into the fourth and fifth teams in 2013.

The club's colts manager, Paul Baxter, said of Tyler: "His performance on the field this year and the award is a fitting recognition of all the effort and perseverance that Tyler has displayed over the years."

The team won the Shepherd Neame Essex League Fourth VI Premier Division, completing a memorable campaign.

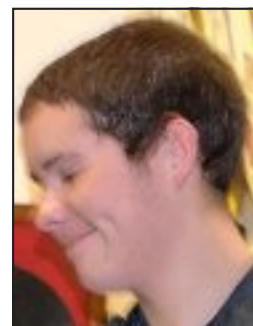

Club chairman Simon Radbourne said: "Both the colts and the seniors have had a really good season especially with so many colts players supporting the club's senior teams."

"I would just like to acknowledge and thank all our volunteers who help manage and coach the colts and help run the senior teams without whose help none of this could be achieved."

Rehman Ahmed's first XI narrowly missed out on promotion in the SNEI Division One. They were fourth in the table with 14-year-old Alan Jones excelling in his debut season at the top level.

The second XI also finished in fourth place in their division, while the third XI were runners-up. The fifth XI finished in sixth place.

Prize money can pay for midfielder

SPENCER KNIGHT hopes the FA Cup money will allow the Hawks to bring in a defensive midfielder.

Harlow Town have little cover for Fabion Simms and Syrus Gordon in the centre of the park.

The Essex club made about £17,000 in Football Association prize money alone, after four wins in the competition.

"We've not got cover [in central midfield]. Syrus Gordon has been great for us this year alongside Fabion [Simms], but if we are looking to strengthen it probably is going to be in that area," assistant boss Knight explained.

"There needs to be competition for places all over – and there we don't have it.

"We need someone to play and to compete with those two [Simms and Gordon] for a spot – that's definitely what we are looking for.

"What we have done, we have made a few quid for the football club as well. We can reinvest that and push on and try and win the league."

Harlow completed the signing of winger Jared Small in time for him to play against Braintree in the FA Cup fourth qualifying round 2-0 defeat at Braintree Town.

Lively

He caused the Iron huge problems when he came off the bench in the second half.

"I thought Jared Small made a big difference when he came on. He looked lively, it's pleasing to have him back at the club," said Knight.

"Pace frightens anyone. And now we have five good wide men at the football club. We need to keep them all happy but the boys themselves know that they need to play well to stay in the team.

"The competition for places, especially in those wide areas is tough."

Knight is hoping Harlow can now find some success in the FA Trophy, starting with the first qualifying round match at Merstham on Saturday.

"If you get a kind draw you can progress a long way in that competition. We've got a tough but winnable game next week," he said. "The FA Cup has been a good ride while we have been on it. We were never going to win the FA Cup – everyone understands that."

Eadie eyes FA glory

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HAWKS left-back Layne Eadie knows time is on his side to try and reach the first round of the FA Cup for the first time in his career, but it doesn't make the pain of defeat any less of a hammer blow.

Harlow Town paid the price for freezing in the first half of their fourth qualifying round tie at Braintree Town as they went down 2-0.

The Iron will meet Sky Bet League Two high-flyers Oxford United at home in the next round, while the Hawks can only dream of what might have been.

Eadie, 22, said: "I haven't been beyond this [fourth qualifying] round. A few of the boys have and know what it takes to get beyond this round.

"It's all dreams. We've still got long careers ahead of us, so there's still time. It would have been brilliant to get there [the first round] but our main focus is the league.

Priority

"Don't get me wrong everyone wanted to get to the first round. But the league is our priority this year."

Harlow last reached the first round in 2008.

The Hawks were lifted when the Iron went down to ten men with more than 20 minutes to go – after Taylor Miles was sent off and the score was still 1-0 – the large contingent of Harlow travelling fans sensed an upset.

But key marksmen Alex Read and Junior Dadson forgot their shooting boots, while too many of their team-mates were below-par.

Eadie said: "The fact that you've got an FA Cup prize, gives it a nervousness about it. Second half I thought we were decent.

"It's probably the difference in levels. If they got those chances, they score. They had one real chance in the first half – the others were shots from 30 yards – and so they go in 1-0 up.

"It was win or bust at the end. We might as well lose 2-0 than just lose 1-0 and say 'what could have been'.

"I think we can hold our heads high. We've come a long way. We deserved to be here. It would have been nice to get a goal and take them back to our place on Tuesday night.

"They were very experienced. I don't think they were technically better than us. I think they had a couple of very good players. Overall they probably just worked harder in the first half than us."

Harlow now move on to the FA Trophy and visit Ryman Premier Merstham in the first qualifying round this Saturday.

They then get back to Ryman North action with a trip to Soham Town Rangers on Tuesday.

"We've got to go again next week in the Trophy and maybe progress in that one," added Eadie.

"A lot of us can and should be playing a couple of levels above – at least.

"We are all here because we love the club, we love each other. We want to win for each other and we want to move this club forward.

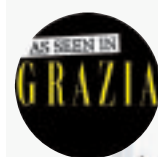

"If we can play like we did in the second half, we can comfortably go on and win the league."
